AI design and stock

A library, not a lottery ticket. One style, many variations.

Who this is for

You can produce a coherent set of icons, patterns, or simple graphics.

First sale

A first payout, however small, that proves the account works.

Time to first

30–90 days to meaningful payout

Cash window

Slow then compounding

Tools

Your design tool, one marketplace, a license you actually read.

Leave this alone

One upload and waiting. Unlicensed copies. Raw unedited dumps if the marketplace forbids them.

The honest timeline

Stock pays slowly at first. Treat it as a library you add to weekly. Do not expect month-one rent. Read what already sells in that library and fill a gap in a style you can repeat.

Check licenses. Some marketplaces restrict raw model output. Clean, vectorize, or redraw so the file is yours to sell.

The first 72 hours

Pick one marketplace. Make a small coherent set. Upload. Write titles the way people search. Repeat next week. That is the habit. The 72 hours is only the account and the first set.

The path, step by step

Step 1. One style. Ten variations.

Step 2. Keywords that match the job of the asset.

Step 3. Weekly upload block on the calendar.

Step 4. Kill sets that do not move after a fair window. Double the ones that do.

Mistakes

Trademarked logos. Photoreal people you do not have rights to. Expecting a viral set to replace a business.

Copy and week-by-week

Search-shaped titles. One style. Ten variations.

Week 1: account plus first set. Every week after: one upload block. Do not check payouts daily.

Close the book. Do the first 72 hours. Do not tour the rest tonight.
